NOTICE OF DISHONOR

Notice to Agent is Notice to Principal, Notice to Principal is Notice to Agent

You have ten (10) days to respond to this notice

Dear BTVB,

I am in receipt of another unsigned notice from you regarding tickets 2A22087CSP, and 2A22087DSP and some related appearance for court scheduled for 03/26/2012. It seems there has been some misunderstanding on your part so I am writing to attempt to clarify exercising the most extreme due diligence in hopes of avoiding conflict.

To begin you are currently in default of the notice I sent you, and at risk of default judgment. That notice was in no way a plea, it was an answer within 15 days as required by your notices referenced above. But more than an answer it was an offer of discussion in honor to avoid conflict. Regarding both tickets I accept that I could potentially owe the amounts in question, however there is no specific amount stated, and I have yet to receive as my "Notice of Conditional Acceptance" requested, 1. A signed itemized bill, and 2. A copy of the lawful two party contract that requires me to pay it. I again offer to pay if you produce a bill and contract as requested. You have not answered a single point as I offered my understanding, so I assume we have a shared understanding regarding all of those points which you failed to address.

It appears that your bureau is creating conflict in dishonor by trying to jump over honorable discussion and go right into conflict. I have a duty to offer discussion to avoid conflict. Discussion always comes before conflict, and only when discussion fails is there a conflict for a court to adjudicate. If this matter does go so far as a court appearance I will not be the one who has created conflict in dishonor.

I am hereby offering you another opportunity as my honor demands to clarify any points you do not understand, as well as to provide the requested documentation. I cannot in good conscience pay a bill without verifying the accuracy that I owe it. You have 10 days to accept the original I am holding either in person or by certified mail, offering a response and the documentation requested. Normally a Notary would be holding this for collection, however the Notaries in my area are grossly negligent and derelict in their duties. Any response must be under oath, bond, and full commercial liability. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely

Robert D. Johnson
